

You lost because you focused on your own power desires instead of voter needs. You are no better than power hungry Republicans. I am 63 years old and I have never voted Republican, but I am thoroughly disgusted with Democratic power hunger. You represent only yourselves, not me. I am particularly disgusted by Nancy Pelosi's need for control. I want her to retire and get out of the way so someone who is willing to listen to voters and work with Republicans can take her place. Only when all power hungry politicians retire will all voters of all parties enjoy the prospect of having their needs satisfied.

Paula Kramer
paula@speakingfromtriumph.com

blog.speakingfromtriumph.com

Category: Setting Standards for Effectiveness

The Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee Has Left The Room

Congresswoman Debbie Wasserman Schultz Has Left The Room

Category: Women As Elites

It's Time for Female Politicians to Treat Female Constituents as Equals

Letters

North Carolina 8 year old Carson Park wrote this to Democratic Senator Kay Hagan and her Republican challenger (and winner) Thom Tillis:

Why aren't you talking about ways that you will help us? All I hear is your ads where you say mean things about each other.

Patrick Frank wrote this to USA Today after calling people to get out the vote:

It is clear that many folks are disillusioned with the process, a process dominated by such factors as big money, negative advertising and political schism.

26 year old Carl Gibson wrote an open letter to Democrats:

If Democrats want to stay relevant, they'll have to learn to stop taking us for granted and actually make an effort to get our votes.

That would make four citizens of various ages letting politicians know that we're tired of all of your negativity, partisanship and disregard. Both Republican and Democratic politicians are ruining the country, all because your power desires are more important than anything else. Stop acting like teenagers and start acting like adults.